Question: You were interviewed by this office on December 19, 2018--was the statement you gave the truth? Anything you'd like to add?

Answer: The truth. Nothing to add.

Question: Are you aware of an internal investigation UMC conducted on two of its notebook computers containing Micron trade secret files and information? What are the details?

Answer: The day after your office interviewed me, on my leave day, I received a call from the office secretary (I don't remember the lady's name) indicating the company was looking for the notebook computer[s], and that was why the department where I worked would be searched; I was also asked whether my desk drawers could be opened. It was when I found out that UMC was in search of the computers. I only know the company was looking for a specific type of notebook computer, and a photo of the particular notebook computer was sent to my mailbox, but the company did not tell us why they were looking for the particular notebook computer. At the end, the computer was not found in my department. I also have some misgivings about this issue, which is how these two notebook computers containing Micron trade secret files and information came into light.

Question: In reference to the above mentioned, who were these two notebook computers assigned to?

Answer: First of all, I have no idea which two notebook computers your office is referring to. Secondly, I have no knowledge that Micron trade secret files and information were stored in the notebook computer[s], and that is why I am not able to answer to whom the computers were assigned.

Question: (Remark: One copy of voice recording file and translation material from a UMC internal meeting during the investigation.) Does content of the recording and the translation match?

Answer: (After listening and reading) Yes, the content of the recording and translation provided by your office are the same.

Question: In reference to the above mentioned, who were the participants at this meeting? Were you one of them? Who are the persons respectively represented by codes C, K, L, and H?

Answer: This meeting was held after February 7 or 8 of 2016. Due to the time elapsed, I don't remember how many people were at the meeting. The code C represented a UMC attorney with the last name CHEN [STC 7115] (I don't know the given name); the code K was myself, and I have no idea whom code L represented. Code H was HUANG [STC 7806]--the former director of legal affairs (I don't know the given name).

Question: In reference to the above mentioned, according to the discussion in the recording, when you guys talked about the second notebook computer being missing and how to handle it, you indicated you have already deleted the information pertaining to Micron's trade secrets, or that you have formatted it (FORMAT). However, this computer is used internally at UMC for browsing and inspecting Micron's trade secret information. Why did you, time and time again, hide the facts from this office? Please provide the details to what was discussed in the meeting in accordance to the sequence of the recordings.

Answer: First of all, I must explain--the notebook computer I was referring to in the recording is for our department public use, a backup computer, located by where LI Fuzhe was situated. When I first entered UMC, I had to send out a problematic computer to get fixed, and that was why I took this backup notebook computer from LI Fuzhe, but I was unsuccessful in getting into the system after entering the account's passcode. It was when I learned from LI Fuzhe that that was a backup computer and unable to connect to the network. After this, I left this notebook computer by where I was sitting, and I had no idea what kind of information was stored in the computer. At the time when UMC was being searched, our entire department had only two shared backup notebook computers--one was under HE Jianting's custody, and another was located near my desk. And because the notebook computer under HE Jianting's custody had already been confiscated, my intuition was that the notebook computer near my desk might also cause misunderstanding, but I must emphasize again that I have never been able to successfully logged into this notebook computer, and I don't know what sort of things stored in it. That is also why during my last interview with your office, when I was asked whether the notebook computer contained any Micron information, my respond was I don't know. Following the incident, Attorney CHEN and former Director of the Legal Affairs HUANG came to discuss this matter with me, I did try to FORMAT this computer, but because I was unable to gain access, so it is true that I did not FORMAT it. I said in the recording that I wanted to turn this notebook computer over to the company ASAP is because it created a certain level of pressure and stress for me. Soon after this meeting, I turned this notebook computer over to our department secretary Jocky (I'm not sure of the Chinese name), but I don't know what Jocky did with this notebook computer.

Question: In reference to the above mentioned, whereabouts were the two notebook computers kept in the office? Please provide details of the location.

Answer: As I have stated previously, these two were back up notebook computers belonging to the First and Second Special Project Office of which everyone had access to. I'm not clear as to why one of them is kept by HE Jianting. The other computer, even though it was placed near my desk, it was available for everyone without having to first check with me or the department secretary. The people who knew about these two notebook computers, as far as I know, included HE Jianting, LI Fuzhe, and myself because we were the ones who entered UMC at an earlier stage. Additionally, the department secretary, Jocky, also knew about these two notebook computers. As to whether anyone else may have had knowledge of that, I'm not sure.

Question: Have you ever checked Micron trade secret information stored in either one of the two notebook computers? Or, did you insert an USB or other devices into the two notebook computers to examine Micron trade secret information?

Answer: I have never utilized the notebook computer under HE Jianting's custody. As for the notebook computer located next to my desk, as I have stated earlier, I have not had success in entering the system, which is why I have not looked at the information inside the two notebook computers, and I don't know whether Micron trade secret information is stored in the computers. As for myself, I deleted all my Micron related work information when I was leaving Micron.

Question: In reference to the aforementioned UMC internal investigation, has anyone interviewed you about it?

Answer: Only Attorney CHEN and HUANG, former Director of Legal Affairs, from the broadcasted meeting at your office, interviewed me, and no one else. UMC started the hunt for the notebook computers after I was interviewed by your office last time; I was confused as to why there was still a hunt for the notebook computer, but the company did not explain the reason for the hunt, and I did not ask why.

Question: Have you ever tried to log on to either of the two notebook computers?

Translation File Name: 1000785.GUO Fengming 1 final

Question: Continued from the above conversation, what respective instructions were you given by those who participated in the discussion?

Answer: I did not discuss with anyone about deleting information from the notebook computer. I gave the notebook computer to the department secretary Jocky following a discussion with UMC's Attorney CHEN and former Director of Legal Affairs HUANG. I wasn't sure how they handled it.

Question: Who are the people who would know about information in the notebook computer has already been deleted? Please describe in detail the names of those people.

Answer: The decision to Format the notebook computer was entirely a consequence of my own thinking, which in the end was not successful, and that was why I did not tell anyone about it.

Question: Continued from previous conversation, after deleting the information from the notebook computer, how was the notebook computer disposed by you all?

Answer: As I stated earlier, I gave the notebook computer to the department secretary Jocky. As to how they handled it, I don't know.

Question: Where did you once hide the particular notebook computer?

Answer: First of all, I need to explain that I did not hide this notebook computer. When your office came to conduct the search, this notebook computer was placed next to where I was sitting. After your office completed the search, I put the notebook computer inside my cabinet, making it under my custody instead of a shared computer.

Question: Did you already destroyed the physical notebook computer?

Answer: I don't know. I am unaware of its status after giving it to the department secretary Jocky.

Question: Which people inside and outside of UMC instructed you to hide or destroy that notebook computer? Please provide details of the names of those people.

Answer: During the search at UMC, the notebook computer was placed by where I was sitting the whole time. After the search, I came to the conclusion that this computer may come under suspicion, so I wanted to return it to the company as soon as possible, which was why I put it inside my cabinet. The reason I did so was based on my own logic, and no one gave me instructions to do so.

Question: Where is the current whereabouts of the particular notebook computer?

Answer: As I have stated earlier, I'm unaware of its status after turning it over to the department secretary Jocky.

Question: You have committed perjury last (and this) time of the written records of the interviews about the status of aforementioned notebook computer[s], why?

Answer: When your office interviewed me last time, I was only asked if I had seen information pertaining to the Micron Company, and the notebook computer was not mentioned. Additionally, it is true that I have not seen the Micron information in the computer, which was why I said I did not know. As for this time when your office asked me right from the beginning about the notebook computer, I did not know the notebook computer your office is referring to is the one that was located by my desk which I later put away in the cabinet. After I turned it over to the department's secretary Jocky, the company was once again looking for a notebook computer, and since I wasn't clear which notebook computer you were referring to, that's why I said I don't know.

Question: Who is "Jocky" you were referring to in that particular meeting? What is the person's Chinese name?

Answer: Jocky's last name is CAO [STC 2580], female, a secretary to our Special Project Technical Office, but I forgot her full name.

Question: What was Jocky's job responsibilities? Which department does she belong to?

Answer: Jocky is a secretary of the Special Projects Technical Office to which I belong, and she is responsible for handling administrative and general matters.

Question: Who is Jocky's immediate superior? When it comes to business, who does she report to?

Answer: ZOU Shifang is Jocky's immediate supervisor. Theoretically, Jocky should report all business matters to Shifang, but I'm not sure about the details. Jocky or ZOU Shifang would be in a better position to answer that question.
